

RED CROSS SET FOR OPENING OF
DRIVE TUESDAY

$3,175 Is Goal of 1940 Roll Call; First Report Meeting Wednesday.

Final details of the 1940 roll call of the Marion County Red Cross chapter were being completed today in preparation for the opening of the drive Tuesday.

The year's roll call will be for $3,175, a greater sum than in recent years because of the additional work the chapter will be doing to give in connection with the home defense program.

Chapter officers and Ralph E. Conant, roll call chairman, have agreed the hope that the drive can be completed in one week.

Patrons of churches in the city and county have been asked to relay their congregations Sunday of the opening of the roll call.

Women Workers Meet

Yesterday about 150 women who will canvass the residential districts met with their chairman, Mrs. V. H. Barnhill, at the chapter office in the Y. M. C. A., to receive instructions and get their supplies. Mrs. Barnhill and Mrs. Eugene Soudy gave a Red Cross card and Mrs. Soudy gave a talk on the services of the Red Cross and explaining the need for the increased budget. Rev. Lawrence A. Wood of Trinity Baptist church, publicity chairman, spoke briefly.

The men who will be in charge of conducting the roll call in the business and industrial districts received their supplies at a meeting Thursday with their chairman, Tim R. Fahey.

Supplies are being distributed in the county branches. The roll call branch meeting to give out supplies will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 at the school, Mr. Fahey will attend.

First Report Wednesday

First report dinner of the workers will be held Wednesday night. Red Cross posters were put out yesterday and today in the city and county and two large street flags were to be suspended across Center and Main street today.

Announcement was made today of the winners of the poster contest conducted by the Junior Red Cross in connection with the roll call. The posters are on display in the windows of the H. Schaffner Co. store on South Main street and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. at West Center street. The Gas Co. display also includes Junior Red Cross albums from Japan, the Philippines, Alaska, Canada, Puerto Rico, France, China, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The posters were judged by Mrs. Paul Knauss, Mrs. J. C. Ackerman and Mrs. Katherine Decker Smith. First and second winners were given in each grade, from the third through the junior high school grades. The certificates will be awarded next week at the schools.

ENGINEERS SURVEY
DAMAGE TO BRIDGE

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 9.—Engineers planning reconstruction of the Narrows bridge converged on Tacoma today while workmen began to remove the sagging concrete and steel work in order to reduce the weight on cables and towers, started by the shift of weight when the main part of the roadway plunged into Puget Sound yesterday. Clearing of debris yesterday permitted resumption of service on tracks under the approach of the collapsed span.

The engineers, including Fredrick Liebowitz of New York, associate of the bridge's designer, John A. Moisseff, represented by every agency involved in the reconstruction job, the state and Washington's toll bridge authority.

Report Greeks More Than Hold Own

Assailant in Fight Seven Months Ago Is Victim of Gash in New Altercation.

For the second time in seven months the friendship of two Marion men was marred at least temporarily last night when an altercation resulted in one of the men being taken to City hospital and the other to jail.

Confined to the hospital with severe lacerations is Alva Rosebrough, 48, of 747 1/2 Bennett street while Clarence Stiffler, 42, of the same address, described as Rosebrough's "closest friend" is held at City prison on an open charge.

Last April 30 Rosebrough was arrested on a charge of stabbing Stiffler in the back with a butcher knife but the charge was

FIRST DRAFT QUIZZES
TO BE MAILED SOON

Will Go to Low Order Numbers Next Week.

Mailing of questionnaires to registrants with low order numbers in Marion county will begin next week, probably Tuesday, the three draft boards announced today.

They will be mailed out at a rate not to exceed 30 a day. Every registrant will eventually get one of these eight-page quizzes, although some men with high order numbers may not get them before one to three months, depending partly upon how fast the army demands men from Marion county.

Numbers Assigned

All the boards now have completed their task of assigning their local order numbers. Board 1 (Wards 1, 2 and 3) is posting its numbers in the post office basement. Board 2 (Wards 4, 5 and 6) will post its numbers early next week in the lobby of the Marion-Reserve Power Co. building at 138 South Main street. Board 3 (rural) has had its numbers posted in the main lobby of the post office.

Hours of the draft boards were also announced today.

Board 1 and 3—8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., closed one hour around noon for lunch.

Board 2—9 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. weekdays and from 9 a. m. to 12 noon on Saturdays. The lobby for Board 2 is open at all hours.

One Board Sending Cards

Board 2 is also continuing its previously announced plan of mailing to each of its registrants little cards notifying the men of their serial numbers and local order numbers.

Boards 1 and 3 will not send out cards, reporting that a new regulation issued by the state provides that cards should not be sent except under certain conditions. Registrants of Boards 1 and 3 may learn their order numbers by inspecting the bulletin boards.

The Star now has lists of serial and local order numbers for Boards 1 and 3 and early next week will have the list for Board 2. Any one is welcome to visit The Star office during regular office hours and look over the lists.

Physical Examinations

Officials of Board No. 2 also issued advice today to registrants on another matter.

No registrant should appear at the draft examining physician's office for a draft examination unless he has been notified by his draft board to do so.

Thus far only four volunteers of Board 2 have been called for examination. No other men in the county have been called.

15,000 ITALIANS
NEAR CAPTURE,
GREEKS CLAIM

Athens Reports Whole Division Surrounded in Mountain Region.

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, Nov. 9.—An entire Italian division—perhaps 15,000 men—was reported in informed quarters today to have been trapped by Greek defenders in the Pindus mountains and its capture only a matter of hours.

The troops were identified as Premier Mussolini's famed Centaur division and it was said hundreds of the men including the commanding general, had been taken prisoner.

The action was one of a series in which Greek sources said counter-attacking mountain troops had thrown the Italian invasion machine into reverse all along the 100-mile front.

The remainder of the division, said to be without food and other supplies, was scattered throughout the mountains inside a circle formed by Greek troops. Heavy Italian guns and a large quantity of war materials were dumped into a ravine to prevent capture by the Greeks, one source said.

Military experts said the predicament of the division was due both to an Italian blunder and brilliant Greek strategy. The Italians, trying to make a lightning thrust at a strategic road running into Ioannina, went deep into the mountains. The Greeks cut the column and closed the gap in the lines, isolating the invaders.

MILITARY PRISONERS
ARRIVE IN SALONIKA

SALONIKA, Greece, Nov. 9.—Italian forces in Albania were reported to be withdrawing from the Koriza sector today in the midst of the heaviest fighting of the two-week-old Italian-Greek war.

Greek troops were said to be gaining the upper hand slowly, although they had made no large advances.

Meanwhile, a new batch of 280 Italian prisoners arrived in Salonika. Thirty-one of these were Alpini, with feathers in their caps. Troops of this type were formerly stationed on the French front.

Greek guards accompanying the prisoners said they offered all their money and even wedding rings for food when captured.

Neutral observers took this as an indication that British and Greek naval action in the Adriatic was making it difficult for Italy to supply her Albanian troops.

There were consistent reports from Albania, even before the Fascist invasion of Greece, of a shortage of food there.

Buses, taxis and trucks for civilian use appeared on the streets for the first time today since transportation facilities were requisitioned at the start of the war.

A raw decree called all officers 40 and 47 years of age for service and at the same time workers in several industries were assigned to making war materials.

DIVE BOMBERS HIT
BRITISH CRUISER

Berlin Claims Successful Attack on Ship.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—The German high command announced today that its Stuka dive bomber forces, on counter-blockade duty against Britain, scored two bomb hits on a 10,000-ton British cruiser yesterday, damaging it so that its "loss is suspected."

It was the second time in as many days that the high command has reported bomb hits on 10,000-ton British cruisers.

The daily communiqué said six merchant ships totaling 34,000 tons "were sunk with certainty" yesterday by aerial bombardment and two others totaling 7,000 tons "in all probability were destroyed."

"Stuka groups of General Field Marshal Kesselring again attacked shipping objectives and a convoy at sea in the region of the east coast of the British Isles and caused heavy damage to the enemy," the communiqué said.

Hangars and barracks at airports in Norfolk and Yorkshire were set afire, it was said, while industrial plants in Birmingham, Coventry, Liverpool, and dock and supply centers in London were scored against.

BRITISH BOMB MUNICH
WHILE HITLER SPEAKSMarion's Armistice Day
Arrangements Completed

Morning Service at Courthouse and Parade at Night To Be Monday Features.

With most of the world again at ease with war, the people of Marion and hundreds of other communities through the United States will pay their annual tribute to peace Monday—the 22nd anniversary of Armistice day.

This year, as in none of the other years since World War I ended, Marion's people will feel a new meaning of the word peace, in view of the fact that virtually all the young men of the community are registered for military service.

Scarcely a family in Marion has not been touched in some way—a son, a brother, a father or a friend signed up to serve his country.

Parade Plans Made

Plans for the Armistice Day observance were virtually complete today, with announcement by Major George T. Geran, grand marshal, of the night parade details.

The parade is just one feature of the celebration. At 11 a. m. the annual public observance sponsored by Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, will be conducted at the south steps of the courthouse.

Bank and building and loan companies, the courthouse, the state employment office, city offices and post office will close for the day. The post office lobby will be open and special delivery service maintained, but there will be no regular mail deliveries.

Schools will remain in operation, with special programs planned for the day.

Parade Formation

The parade will form at 7:16 in the vicinity of Center and Oak and Orchard streets and will move at 7:30, Major Geran announced. The marching units will form on Orchard street with their left resting on Center street. The float division will form on Oak street with the right resting on Center. The floats will form in the order of arrival. William M. Laughman will be in charge of the marching units and Sheriff Fred F. Miller will direct the float division.

The line of march:

East on Center street to Greenwood street; south to Church street; west to State street; north to Center street; west to Main street.

The marching units will disband on the west and south sides of the courthouse where the bands will be massed and a brief ceremony conducted.

The float judges will be stationed on the south steps of the courthouse and will view the floats as they proceed east on Center street.

Trophy Awards

Three cups will be awarded in the parade. A large trophy will go to the Boy Scout troop reporting the highest percentage of its registered membership in scout uniform under command of an adult leader. Troops will report to Scout Executive Fred P. Strother at Central Junior High school grounds no later than 7 p. m.

Another large trophy will go to the best industrial or business float and the third will go to the best uniformed and best appearing Boy Scout troop marching. The cups, all three, must be won three times by the same organization in order to obtain permanent possession.

Judge will be Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young, Probate Judge Oscar Gast and Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen.

Parade Order

The order of units in the parade was announced today by Major Geran as follows:

State highway patrol, city police and firemen, Triangle Motorcycle club, Harding High school band, massed national colors, grand marshal and his staff, Navy club and the U. S. S. Marion Eagles band, 40th and 8th Engine and Box Car, various veterans groups, industrial and fraternal organizations in order of their arrival, Scouts Lodge 5.W.O.C. No. 1947, Marion Steam Shovel Lodge 5.W.O.C. No. 1949, Roosevelt Lodge No. 1281 International Association of Machinists, Girl and Boy Scouts, floats.

London Claims Hit on Beer
Hall Where Nazis Celebrated Anniversary

By The Associated Press

MUNICH, Nov. 9.—British bombs plummeted down on Munich last night "sometime after" Fuehrer Adolf Hitler had addressed his Nazi party comrades in a confident speech commemorating the seventeenth anniversary of the beer hall putsch, informed Berlin sources acknowledged today.

They emphasized that Hitler had completed his address in which he declared that Germany is "prepared for the future as never before," and "strong enough to meet any combination in the world" before the royal air force raiders arrived.

The Berlin sources said Munich citizens were forced to take shelter in their cellars during the raid.

Surrounded by the Nazi party's "old guard," Hitler declared in his stormy speech that Germany's production capacity is the highest in the world and that the German army, the "best military instrument of the world, is unimpairedly trained and improved."

He promised certain victory for the reich in the war.

The exact time of the raid was not announced and the movements of the fuhrer and other party leaders after the raid likewise were not made known.

Say Damage Slight

German sources said, however, that little damage resulted from the bombing of Munich. They admitted the British attacks also had extended to Stuttgart.

Germans, who attributed to British agents a bomb explosion in the Buergerhaus hall a year ago, on the occasion of Hitler's address to the sixteenth anniversary of the putsch, were quick to couple last night's raid with the party function.

In a raid on Munich several months ago, German sources said bombs fell in a park.

Nazis were little inclined to emphasize the British punctuation to the Munich ceremony, but one source referred to the last year's bomb explosion, which occurred 11 minutes after Hitler had left the hall, and said "it is noteworthy that the British have such a great interest in our party affairs."

Several Roof Fires

Two persons were injured, the high command said, and several roof fires caused in the residential sections by mob hits.

He spoke sarcastically of the United States as "the land of unlimited freedom," adding that "every citizen must pass an unusually difficult examination before permission is given him to tread the sacred soil of democracy, although scarcely 10 persons to the square kilometer live there."

"As far as American production goes," he said with sarcasm, "one cannot even represent it with astronomical figures."

"But I can assure you that German production capacity is the highest in the world. . . . for we are today in a position to mobilize the powers of almost all Europe."

He indicated that the reich, as a result of this stop order, had freed additional industrial facilities for airplane production.

Around him as he spoke behind closed doors in the Lowerbrenner beer cellar were leaders of the party and survivors of both the 1923 putsch and the bomb explosion which rocked Buergerhaus hall a year ago only a short time after Hitler had left. He made no mention of that incident last night.

The fuhrer rejected all thought of compromise in the war and declared:

"I imagine that I am not only the hardest man which the German nation has had for decades, perhaps centuries, but in addition I possess the greatest authority."

He dangled the threat of intensified air and submarine warfare before the British, and declared "we will see who is blocked in a few months; we or the others."

DORIS DUKE DECLARES
HER MARRIAGE ENDED

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—Doris Duke Cromwell, the heiress, says her marriage to James H. R. Cromwell, former minister to Canada, is over—but she has no plans for a divorce.

"I've separated from my husband," she told reporters as she boarded a liner for Honolulu last night.

"Yes, it's permanent. I am going to my home in Hawaii for an indefinite stay."

Asked if she would seek divorce, she replied:

"I have no plans."

They last saw each other at a birthday party for Cromwell in New York June 4. He disclosed Thursday that they were estranged.

CAUSE OF AIRLINER
CRASH IS SOUGHT

By The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 9.—Civilian authorities investigating questioned numerous eyewitnesses today in an attempt to place the blame for a collision of two airplanes here yesterday in which 19 persons were killed.

As the investigators sought an explanation for what they termed an "impossible accident" workmen labored in Botafogo to remove from the sunken wreckage of a twin-engine Brazilian VASP airliner the bodies of the 18 persons killed in it.

Nineteenth victim of the crash was Collin Abbott, 43-year-old former British world war pilot and lone occupant of the Shell-Mex Argentina Petroleum company plane which collided with the transport just after the latter had taken off from Santos Dumont airfield.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TEXT FOR SUNDAY ANNOUNCED

The golden text for the services Sunday at the First Church of Christ Scientists will be Psalm 28:1-8: "Unto Thee will I cry, O Lord, my Rock. Save Thy people and bless Thine inheritance: feed them also, and lift them up forever."

The lesson sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Whatever indicates the fall of man or the opposite of God or God's absence, is the Adam-dream, which is neither Mind nor man, for it is not begotten of the Father. The rule of inversion infers from error its opposite. Truth; but Truth is the light which dispels error. As mortals begin to understand Spirit, they give up the belief that there is any true existence apart from God."

Peace That Abides

A SERMONETTE

By REV. E. H. WIERTH

Pastor, First Evangelical and Reformed Church

"Jesus came and stood in their midst, and said unto them, Peace be unto you."—St. John 20:19.

IT IS strange that angels (representatives of the Divine) should have announced peace, when ceaselessly the world has been stricken with war and the fear of war. Were these voices mistaken, and that promise a disappointment and a cheat?

When the Lord said, "My peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you," did He mean peace as we think of it, the contentment of Europe going about its everyday business, without the bristling of arms, one nation living at peace with another, the absence of strife between capital and labor, the household counting over his peaceful gains, the sweet hearth, the housewife singing to her children?

The early disciples did not find peace in that way. They went forth to journey afar, to suffer by hand and sea; to know torture, imprisonment, disappointment, to suffer death by the hands of others. What then did He mean when He said, "Peace be unto you?" When we think of this statement we must remember that He said, "Not as the world gives, give I unto you." He gave His disciples peace, but not as the world gives.

SOME time ago I was one of a group of people in whose midst some things had gone wrong. Some of the people who had important roles to play were not there, the time to start the performance was already past. Under the circumstances tempers were rising, every one was getting excited, anxious and disturbed. Into the midst of this scene walked the director, who, although he knew things were not as they should be, also recalled he couldn't do much about it, and therefore maintained his poise. The peace that Christ gives is a peace of poise in the inner man. It is an inner condition which is not ruffled, disturbed and certainly not destroyed by the shocks and disasters of a warring world. We speak of Christ Jesus as "The Master." We think of Him as such, not because He is a great teacher, not because He is our leader, not because He is the Son of Man or even because He is the Son of God, but because He completely mastered all the disturbing and destroying forces of life. There was no thing that conquered Him. He conquered them all—even that last grim spectre—death.

BUT His peace, His mastery was predicated upon a condition which the world today has almost entirely lost. HE BELIEVED IN, AND HAD WITHIN HIMSELF, THE MIGHT OF GOD. That is to say His life was one with the will and power of God. "I and the Father are one." That is to say as far as both within and without, of any human being He was one with the plans, desires, workings, aims, ambitions of the universe, and His power flowed through His life. Therefore He had within Himself, someone once said, "If you lay a straw parallel in and with the Mississippi river its waters will flow through the straw." So it was with Jesus—the wisdom and might of God flowed through Him. So He had Peace and Power.

Some people achieve a temporary peace. They agree with their families, others because they agree with their group, others because they agree with their nation. None of these can make for permanent peace. They all neglect allegiance to the whole to which they are finally responsible. Permanent peace comes from agreement with God. If we would know the peace that Christ gives, the peace that abides, that the world can not give nor take away, we too must be established in the might and wisdom of God. "Not as the world gives, give I unto you." I give peace, the peace that abides.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TEXT FOR SUNDAY ANNOUNCED

The golden text for the services Sunday at the First Church of Christ Scientists will be Psalm 28:1-8: "Unto Thee will I cry, O Lord, my Rock. Save Thy people and bless Thine inheritance: feed them also, and lift them up forever."

The lesson sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Whatever indicates the fall of man or the opposite of God or God's absence, is the Adam-dream, which is neither Mind nor man, for it is not begotten of the Father. The rule of inversion infers from error its opposite. Truth; but Truth is the light which dispels error. As mortals begin to understand Spirit, they give up the belief that there is any true existence apart from God."

She called her, had always been of a nervous temperament, but for the past two years this had been much worse and she said she felt that she was "aging so fast." ## The Debt Taboo Is Lifted

TREASURY SECRETARY MORGENTHAU officially opens post-campaign business with an announcement that he is going to ask congress for a public debt limit of either 60 or 65 billion dollars. This is a matter which could not have been discussed conveniently in advance of election day, but must be discussed now. Like the skeleton in the closet, it can't be kept hidden forever.

The gross public debt now stands at $44,140,600,112, about three billion more than it was a year ago. The existing legal debt limit is 45 billion dollars; there is no more leeway for debt increase. The debt has reached its legal ceiling by rising steadily since 1931, when deficit financing began. During the Roosevelt administration it has increased 100 per cent—from $22,538,072,174 (June 30, 1933) to almost twice that amount.

When the question of public finance still was being discussed openly by President Roosevelt with a view to finding a remedy for deficit spending, it was pointed out that a new war debt piled on top of an already unwieldy public debt would constitute a dangerous situation. Therefore, it was argued, national defense made a balanced budget and debt reduction imperative in peacetime.

However, nothing was done. Deficit financing ultimately was accepted as normal procedure; critics were chided for talking about it. When Republicans discussed it, they were accused of undermining popular confidence for partisan advantage. With the election out of the way, however, it becomes Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's unpleasant duty to talk about it, himself. A public debt of 65 billion dollars is forecast—and, says the secretary apprehensively, the country has just begun to arm.

The B Boys from Ohio

A WAG has suggested that fond mothers henceforth will tell their sons they have a chance to run against Franklin D. Roosevelt for president if they lead clean, upright lives. If it turns out that way, which of course it won't, Ohio's two B boys, Bricker and Burton, will be right in line.

A Republican presidential nomination for one of them is almost certain. Both won office in a state with 26 electoral votes when other Republican hopefuls were being batted down. Gov. Bricker, particularly, has shown himself to be a ballot box whiz, even when allowances are made for the resentment which caused Ohioans to turn thumbs down on Martin L. Davey as a matter of principle.

Of course, 1944 is a long way off, and lots can happen before then. But if too much doesn't happen and if the Republican convention that year looks to Ohio for timber, as it did this year (Wendell Willkie appeared out of nowhere, watch the B boys.

Truth's Scarcity Value

A LITTLE story about stories migrating from Holland to South Africa with messages concealed in their feathers may not be true, but it illustrates what is bound to be a vital consequence of Europe's systematic suppression of information.

In all the countries controlled by Germany and in all the countries trying to save their sovereignty, truth has become one of the rarest of all the commodities essential for human existence. Its value has increased enormously, simply because it can't be had for the asking.

Imagination alone limits the variety of schemes which will be used to tell people what they want to know about conditions in the captive countries. Each bit of reliable information which leaks through the censors and secret police will be given close attention.

A first-hand account of conditions in Poland, for instance, will be seized eagerly by purveyors of information and broadcast widely; that has happened many times already, not only in the case of Poland, but of Austria, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Norway and France. Relatively casual observations have excited interest they never could have excited ordinarily.

Newspapers, magazines and radio constitute a ready market for factual information; the market in free countries is based on curiosity about matters which become more important in ratio to attempts to conceal them. Indirectly, truth is being given a lift by the very fact its enemies have made it so scarce.

Vanishing Act

UPWARD of 75,000,000 campaign buttons came rattling out of stamping machines between the end of June and the windup of the campaign. They were distributed in every corner of the country.

That's a lot of buttons—and a lot of metal. If all of it could be collected in one place there would be enough to keep a steel mill busy for several days melting it down into ingots.

Yet, it is a fact that within the space of a few more weeks a campaign button from 1940 will be harder to find than a taxicab in a steel storm. They just disappear from the face of the earth, with the exception to a few saved as souvenirs, challenging the proposition that nothing ever is created or destroyed in this supposedly balanced universe.

News Behind the News

Rumblings Heard Behind Quiet That Has Recently Settled Over Japs.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Japanese military politicians are playing sweet and low, but rumblings portending another coming crisis have been detected at Mr. Roosevelt's seismograph.

The Japanese appear to have quieted down only to cover the withdrawal of their troops from Nanking and other interior points. Overcome by their extended lines, they are simply drawing in their forces to the ports. There they hope to control China indefinitely with a minimum cost, somewhat like the British did in the past.

But proof that this does not mean peace lies in confidential advice suggesting that the bulk of the withdrawn forces are being prepared for use against Singapore or the Dutch East Indies.

Mr. Roosevelt's diplomatic agents are steeling themselves for trouble. Nervousness was apparent, particularly among business groups, because Mr. Roosevelt failed not only to act, but even to issue a forceful statement calling for national unity immediately after election. Certain of Mr. Roosevelt's friends were inclined to attribute this neglect to Mr. Willkie. The congratulatory telegram from the Republican nominee was not so worded as to encourage such a reply. Then further, they leaned to the assumption that political peace at home is up to Republicans rather than the President.

As a matter of purely personal opinion, the future seems from here to be entirely up to Mr. Roosevelt alone. Not only in words but in steps he takes, he will direct the future course.

Dictatorships have arisen in Europe not so much by violent revolution as by gradual suppression of opposition. A Democratic facsimile could arise in this country only if opposition is suppressed.

That prospect seems impossible. Mr. Roosevelt has unique new central government powers which theoretically could be used to weaken and displace his foes. But even if any executive were so minded, he could not displace 22,000,000 or more people. Strength shown by the Republicans at the polls, therefore, is an absolute guarantee that despotism fears will not be realized.

Mr. Roosevelt in the next four years must not only represent as President the 25,000,000 who voted for him, but the 22,000,000 people who voted against him.

A few of Mr. Willkie's friends (but not Mr. Willkie himself) were said to fear that an unrestricted promise of unity from them might be construed too far by such an aggressive nature as Mr. Roosevelt. They thought in their first despair a blind offer of unlimited allegiance might cause the ideals in which they believe to be blanketed.

Unity, as congressional Republicans see it and visualize it, does not mean that. Nothing that was true last Monday became untrue on Wednesday. No basic principle which was deep and true to any Republican on Monday, became shallow or untrue on Wednesday. No sacrifice of ideals can be involved in democratic unity, for that in itself would bring side-handed government.

But such Republican leaders as Senator McNary have for years worked daily on a friendly basis with the White House without abandoning their principles.

That is the kind of a working arrangement which seems likely to develop.

Satisfied. The Republicans have no cause for regret. Nearly all who can be contacted here think the fight was good, hard and clean, and satisfyingly worthy while in view of its educational aspects and the success in mustering a formidable opposition vote which is a guarantee of two-party government.

Criticism which cropped up inside early in the campaign against Mr. Willkie was entirely washed away by the result. Everywhere among Republicans here admiration is expressed for the unprecedented energy he devoted to voicing and advertising the principles of Republican opposition.

Spend-Lend. The new spend-lend program is likely to take a scattered form rather than being rolled up into one big lump.

First, and most likely, will come a substantial appropriation for militarizing highways by adding broad shoulders for trucks, strengthening bridges to withstand transportation of heavy armament, widening tunnels, etc. Rural electrification, and farm security extension may avail allocations of funds in the regular budget. The proposed grid power system to link TVA eventually with the St. Lawrence is also slated at present for separate handling. Additional housing funds up to $800,000,000 will be sought through revival of the Wagner bill.

The guiding forces behind the program all appear in favor of such a course, although Mr. Roosevelt may yet bundle them all together if he wishes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The economic experts who measure the impact of war on our trade, industry and labor have run headlong into the problem of our invisible aid to Britain.

Our invisible aid is by far greater than the visible, even though this unseen help seldom squeezes into the headlines with more spectacular planes, tanks and destroyers.

Invisible aid takes three forms: 1. Sacrifice of trade to war zones. 2. Abnormal expansion of exports of war goods at the expense of normal exports. 3. A deluge of gold we neither need nor want.

Even before the war the American merchant marine was handicapped by competition from nations that could build and run their ships cheaper than we could on American wage standards. Now our neutrality law and the British blockade bar to us the world's richest trade routes between America and Europe.

William L. Montgomery of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce recently estimated that the war is costing us $750,000,000 worth of foreign trade.

More important than shipping services is the stuff that ships carry. Our biggest sacrifice to Britain is our willingness to let them buy more war goods and less peace goods, knowing all the while they won't need war goods after the fighting is over.

The British almost doubled their purchases of military planes in the first year of the war, boosting them up to $144,326,000 worth. But food shipments increased only slightly from $80,000,000 to $113,590,000 in the first war year.

Our cotton shipments to the British Isles went up abnormally from $23,000,000 to $104,030,000, because Uncle Sam subsidized cotton exports. But tobacco purchases over here spiraled from $82,000,000 to $20,759,000. Wood and paper shipments almost doubled from $22,148,000 to nearly $38,459,000. Miscellaneous items jumped up nearly one-third.

Reasons were many. Primarily, the British were buying here only such "normal" export items as they had to because the Germans had taken their previous sources away from them, or they were buying sparingly here of everything except war materials because they could buy here only on a cash and carry basis. This meant they had to use their gold.

Abnormal Trade

But whatever their reasons for British Sea Power Appraised as Major Factor in Outcome of War.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

NOW as from the beginning of this war, now as in the first World War, now as in the Napoleonic wars, the outcome depends upon the control of the Atlantic Ocean. In the end the victory will go to the powers which can find use of the ocean to supply themselves and can cut off their enemies from the non-European world. For Europe cannot be conquered in Europe. Europe cannot live within Europe. Europe cannot be at peace within itself unless it is at peace with the outer world of Asia, Africa and America.

For, though men talk of "Europe" as if it had a political and geographical existence, in fact Europe has no frontiers and no one can say where Europe begins and ends. Is it not evident that "Europe" is inextricably connected with the whole world beyond the continent of Europe, and that, therefore, the control of the waters which connect or separate the continent from the outer world must decide the fate of the continent and of most of the outer world as well? This is the reason why Hitler's victories on the land of Europe did not finish the war. This is the reason why even the invasion of Britain or the destruction of Britain from the air would only be the means to an end, the means to the control of the Atlantic Ocean. This is the reason why the renewal of his war against Britain is such the most serious of all his efforts to win the war. This is the reason why the neutralization of this threat is the principal task in the present phase of the war.

Appraisal of Sea Power. Public opinion has at times exaggerated and at others it has underestimated the critical importance of sea power in this war. The exaggeration has consisted in thinking that Germany could quickly be starved into submission or revolt whereas, in fact, all experience shows that even the most stringent blockade produces its effect slowly. The underestimation has consisted in thinking that if the blockade did not win the war quickly, it would never win the war.

But when we look for the effects of British sea power on Hitler we must not look primarily at the food rations of the German people or even at the German supplies of oil and raw materials. We must look at the political effect. The pressure of British sea power is driving Germany, Italy, Russia and France apart, making unworkable the new European order of which so much has been said. The pressure will, if sea power remains invincible, do to Hitler what it did to Napoleon: it will deprive him of his allies and transform them into his enemies.

Consider first, the case of Russia. It is evident that Russian policy has been dictated solely by fear of the German army, and that this, rather than any ideological consideration or imperialistic ambition, explains the Stalin-Hitler pact, the partition of Poland, the occupation of the Baltic states, the Finnish war, and the seizure of Bessarabia and Bukovina.

We do not know whether Russia will participate in this campaign as an accomplice of the axis, or stand aside, or even eventually support the Greeks, the Turks, and the British. But we can be reasonably sure that Russia will go with Germany only if Stalin thinks it is too soon to be safe to oppose Germany, and that he will go against Germany if he thinks this is not too dangerous an operation. But what he must know, what everybody knows, is that while Russia will go with Germany while she must go with Germany, if the blockade continues Germany must finally attack Russia and get at the supplies of the Ukraine and the Black sea region.

Driving Hitler's Allies Apart. This is what it means to say that the effect of sea power is to drive apart Hitler's partners and allies. Consider next the case of Italy.

Be Brave, Brethren

Let a Guy Who Wrong-Guessed Himself to Fame Give You a Tip. Just Change the Subject.

By DAMON RUNYON

WE address our remarks at this time to the inexperienced among the wrong guessers. We are well aware that in the green years of guessing there come moments of darkness and despair when all seems lost, including the guesser and they feel they ought to head for the nearest river.

Obviously this would be a ridiculous gesture, and in New York most inconceivable because the rivers would soon be cluttered up with wrong guessers and there would be no more room for ballot boxes. If the raw hands will attend us a few minutes, they will learn how to conduct themselves under the circumstances of a wrong guess.

We speak to them not only out of the goodness of our hearts, but out of a boundless experience as a wrong guesser. At one period in the history of this great nation, we were known as the most expert Damon Runyon wrong guesser alive. We can remember when we just sat back and watch the other guessers 'em wrong, we like to think we are looking up to as a sort of wrong guesser guru. When we were in our prime as a wrong guesser, countless thousands used to await our guesses before placing their wagers. Ten years ago, come next grass, through some mischance which we have never yet been able to account for, we made a right guess and way was impoverished for months. On the occasion we were the victim of a slimy whistle campaign affecting our integrity as a wrong guesser.

It was whispered by our enemies that our gamblers had got to us and persuaded us to make that right guess. The charge was false, of course, but for a long time we were under a cloud of suspicion. Four years, however, our guess that Alf Landon would win 28 states restored us to public confidence as wrong guessers, and when we finally were retired it was generally agreed that a long stretch of years no guesser had ever been wronger.

The organized polls forced us into retirement. Our heyday we always made our guesses right out of our own head. We were largely responsible for our success never went around asking the opinions of others and no one ever inquired into our reasons for our guesses. They just accepted them as wrong guesses. Let it go at that. When the polls came along, scientific methods to arrive at wrong guesses saw that our days were numbered.

We saw that the people were being asked to ask why and what for. We had no right to produce statistics, like the polls, to our wrong guesses in advance. Nor could we find any reason for so doing when all the had to do was to wait awhile and see for ourselves why our wrong guesses were wrong again the polls commenced making right quite often and we considered this most sistent and confusing.

So we withdrew as a public wrong guesser. Now we just make what you might call wrong guesses. We make them to ourselves for our own enjoyment, never divulging them to the masses.

You would be surprised how expertly still guess 'em wrong, even sub rosa. He we did not intend this treatise as a record of our own personal exploits as a wrong guesser. They were in the record. They are history. history speak for us while we get back to visiting the new recruits among the wrong guessers.

In a case involving individuals, such election, we had one fixed rule as a wrong guesser. We changed the subject. That is, we changed the subject as soon as it was definitely lished that our guess was wrong. On prize and baseball and football games and horse and the fate of new plays and things like we might argue and alibi our wrong guesses it was proved wrong. But never political.

We changed the subject. When our loving friends came around their reproachful glances and their o-h-ah-hahs to remind us of a wrong guess election, we did not get sore at a rebuke the result and predict dire happenings. We changed the subject. Thus our experience prompts us to instruct the inexperienced among the wrong guessers of this dismiss all gloomy reflections on ropes and closets, to keep away from cyanide, bottle just to change the subject.

POLICE HUNT ASHES FOR MURDER CLUES

Building Employee Confesses Burning Girl's Body.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Police technicians sifted small quantities of furnace ashes today in a search for charred bone fragments that would establish a corpus delicti in the slaying and cremation of 10-year-old Genevieve Connolly. Thomas Conroy, 38-year-old building superintendent, confessed yesterday that he throttled the child and burned her body in a furnace because he feared the girl might tell her mother he had kissed her. Assistant District Attorney Sylvester Ryan said. Medical Examiner Charles Hochmann said only a few particles had been found which "may prove to be bits of charred bone," but "I am afraid it will be extremely difficult to make certain now."

On the other hand, District Attorney Samuel J. Foley expressed belief that if experts were able to testify the fragments were "bones of a young female, this—taken together with the confession—will be about all the evidence we need to establish a corpus delicti." If the ashes prove worthless, it will be possible still to prosecute under the state kidnapping law, which carries the death penalty and does not require establishing a corpus delicti, Foley said. The blue-eyed, red-haired girl had been missing two days when Conroy, a native of the same county in Ireland from which the Connollys came, broke down and declared, "I want to get this off my conscience."

Ryan quoted him as saying he had kissed and tried to fondle the child after she had run an errand for him. When she cried, he became panicky, clamped his hands over her mouth, carried her to the basement and threw her on a coal pile where he choked her. Ryan further quoted Conroy: "I heard a gurgling sound and I pressed her throat harder and harder till she stopped."

bombers, was being made available to the British. If the sharing policy, which Mr. Roosevelt emphasized was but a rule-of-thumb standard, is applied strictly to current big bomber production, British may get about 40 of these formidable planes in the next few weeks. Authorities here believed that about 80 or more would be out of the factory by December.

In another development, the priorities board granted the British purchasing commission the right to buy 12,000 additional planes of various types in this country, bringing to 26,000 the number of military aircraft for which they have placed American orders.

Financial Aid for Britain. Meanwhile, an effort to aid the British along financial lines was started at the capitol by Senator King (D-Utah), who introduced a bill to permit them to buy American farm products on credit, by modifying the Johnson act which prohibits loans or credits to a nation in default on its World War debts.

The war department's policy, Patterson said, conforms with that of World War years when union wage scales, a standard work day and time and one-half for overtime were required. Moreover, he said, it is in line with the basic government labor policy of a five-day, 40-hour work week as set forth in labor laws and in policy statements of President Roosevelt and the defense commission.

A good many ships do not arrive there."

Eldridge, earlier in the day, had declared that state engineers protested the design but added that the state had been told it could not have federal grants—$2,800,000 by the PWA and an RFC loan of $3,520,000—unless eastern designs were used.

The part of the design protested, Eldridge indicated, was the solid wind-resisting plate girders, now blamed by some engineers for causing the extreme sway which wrecked the structure. Eldridge said plans for rebuilding depended on the success of present salvage operations.

thority, assisting Oregon observers and federal representatives. Liebherr, arriving in Seattle last night, answered "not true" when told of an assertion by Clark H. Eldridge, chief engineer of the bridge, that federal lending agencies had insisted on use of eastern designs in the bridge.

The part of the design protested, Eldridge indicated, was the solid wind-resisting plate girders, now blamed by some engineers for causing the extreme sway which wrecked the structure. Eldridge said plans for rebuilding depended on the success of present salvage operations.

Pitfalls of Love

A Sequel to "Marriage Meddlers" By ADELE GARRISON

With the Leslie Menace Removed, Tranquil, Happy Months Follow for Madge and Dicky — and Then Comes a Strange Letter from Helena Brixton.

I LOOKED UP at Dicky with the feeling that I had been suddenly dropped into an English garden maze with the exiles carefully confused. "Whatever in the world?" I asked. "Helena Brixton is the vaguest person on earth, but she really has surpassed herself this time."

Dicky settled himself more comfortably in his arm chair, stretched himself, cat fashion, and put his hands behind his head. "Would it help if you read the screed aloud to me?" he asked. "I know you're not 'ear-minded,' but I am, and I can get all I need from the sound of your lovely voice."

I wrinkled my nose at him. He grinned back comfortably, and, picking up the letter again, I read its opening paragraph to him. "Do you see what I mean?" I asked.

He nodded, and spoke slowly, as if he were thinking aloud. "All Maria's fault," he repeated slowly. "Well! Helena has a famous precedent for that accusation."

He paused, and I looked at him provocatively. "What is a stooge supposed to ask at this point?" I asked. "Depends on what kind you are," he retorted. "If you're playing the Mrs. Malaprop role, you might ask 'What President?' Grant?"

I threw a small pillow at him, and he dodged expertly. Age-Old Technique "I know you," he said with pretended ruefulness. "You won't go on until I've explained. Your literal mind and insatiable curiosity must be gratified, so I'll refer you to Holy Writ which tells you of a famous alibi which Adam gave to the serpent, whereby he placed all the blame on feminine shoulders. Mothers-in-law, actual and prospective—with some notable exceptions, I grant you—have been doing it ever since, and Helena appears to have the technique down fine. Now will you read on? I might remind you that we shan't have this sanctuary many more minutes. If Mother finds out I've arrived, and haven't paid my respects to her pronto, you know what will happen."

Only too well, I told myself, from long experiences of Dicky's mother and her follies. Sterling, loyal, lovable, irascible and "touchy" to the nth degree, she takes expert handling, and Dicky and I, with the years, have developed a quite competent technique in dealing with her.

A Few Moments Alone "Fortunately," I told him smiling, "she has not yet finished her afternoon nap."

He settled farther into the chair cushions. "Then we're safe," he said, "unless—how long will the boys be busy with those plants?"

"Until sundown — nearly — I was hurrying to get them in before dark."

"When an inconvenient husband interrupted," he teased. "Dicky!" I expostulated. "You know—"

"Sure I know," he returned, smiling at me. "But before we return to our mutt—especially that temperamental one, Helena, tell me why this unprecedented interest in gardening on the part of the boys. Is it inheritance from

Film Story Hits Racket

"Babies for Sale" One of Double Bill on Marion Theater Program.

The Weaver Brothers and Elvira, popular vaudeville entertainers, are featured in "Friendly Neighbors," which will be shown Monday and Tuesday at the Marion on a bill with "Babies for Sale," an expose of the adoption racket. The program, which will include the excellent short, "The Flag Speaks," will be given a preview at a midnight show tonight.

Cliff Edwards, Al Shean and Thurston Hall are in the supporting cast of "Friendly Neighbors." Lois Hanson is cast as a small town girl who horrifies her relatives by falling in love with a "tramp." The hope played by John Hartley, resumes a brilliant legal career he abandoned when he bogged down by disappointment and disillusionment. The cast of "Babies for Sale" features Rochelle Hudson, Glenn Ford and Miles Mander. Ford plays a reporter who eventually brings the racketeers to justice.

"Waterloo Bridge," starring Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor, an excellent remake of a World War film, will be brought back for showings Tuesday and Wednesday on a bill with a Jones family comedy, "Young as You Feel." Maria Ouspenskaya, C. Aubrey Smith, Lucile Watson and Virginia Field are prominent in the "Waterloo Bridge" cast.

Comedian Andy Devine and Richard Arlen are co-starred in "Danger on Wheels," one of the Thursday-Saturday bills. Peggy Moran has the leading feminine role in this auto race track story which reaches its climax in the Indianapolis speed classic. Devine appears as Arlen's faithful but slow-witted mechanic. The other picture on the double bill will be "Frontier Marshal," an action drama with Randolph Scott, Nancy Kelly, Cesar Romero, Blinnie Barnes and John Carradine. The story is laid in Tombstone, Ariz., one of the wildest towns of the old west.

STARS OF "KNUTE ROCKNE" AT OHIO

Young Mr. and Mrs. Knute Rockne are shown as they are portrayed by Pat O'Brien and Gale Page in "Knute Rockne—All American," now at the Ohio through Thursday.

Rockne Film on Ohio Bill

Dramatic Story of Famed Notre Dame Grid Coach Depicted on Screen.

A fine sincere tribute to one of sportsdom's great, Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, is the human drama, "Knute Rockne—All American," now in a week's run at the Ohio.

"The Mark of Zoro," starring Tyrone Power with Linda Darnell, will follow the Rockne film, opening next Friday.

Pat O'Brien stars as "Rock," whose life was almost legendary. His power, his wise philosophy, the men and teams he built and the influence he still exerts are all in the picture.

Gale Page plays the role of Mrs. Bonnie Rockne.

Ronald Reagan has one of the choice assignments, that of playing the never-to-be-forgotten George Gipp. Donald Crisp is cast as the understanding president of Notre Dame, Father Callahan.

The famous "Four Horsemen" are played by Kane Richmond as Elmer Layden, William Marshall as Don Miller, Nick Lukats as Harry Stuhldreier and Billy Byrne as Nick Crowley.

Rockne's story starts in Norway, where the elder Rockne was a carriage maker, then shifts to Chicago, where Rockne grew up and worked in the post office until he had earned enough to go to Notre Dame.

The film has shots from several of Notre Dame's biggest games. Its football action goes back to 1913, the year that inaugurated the now traditional rivalry between Notre Dame and Army. In that game the famed forward passing combination of Dorrals and Rockne go into action and Notre Dame trampled the Army.

The finishing touches on scenes for the picture were made in South Bend. Five thousand persons turned out to welcome O'Brien, including Mrs. Rockne and her three children.

shooting up purchases of one item, and damping off another, the net effect is to upset the normal trade between the two nations. We are expanding war industries at a dizzy speed, while trying desperately to find markets for our raw foods.

Some years ago we began buying gold at $35 an ounce. A great influx of gold to America started in 1935, when we held only 35 percent of the world's visible supply. The war has accentuated the flow. In the first four months of this year, we loaded another billion dollars worth into our treasure chests.

Says a department of commerce survey:

"If the rate of inflow continues, the gold holdings of the United States at the end of 1940 will approximate $21,000,000,000, or 72 per cent of the world stocks of $29,200,000,000."

To the economist who can read between the lines, that means two things. The British are using largely newly mined gold to pay for their American wartime purchases.

We are taking gold we don't want. One expert suggested to me that the British are now mining enough new gold to continue to pay for all they need from the United States for months, perhaps years to come.

Our Exports Soar

It would be a different story if the British were cashing in their securities and investments in this country to pay for the war.

Jean Arthur Film on Double-Feature Program at State

Jean Arthur finds herself with two attractive husbands in the romantic comedy, "Two Many Husbands," booked for reawakening Sunday and Monday at the State. Believing her first husband, Fred MacMurray, to be dead, she marries Melvyn Douglas. MacMurray turns up lively as a cricket and Miss Arthur tries to decide between the two.

The other picture on the double bill will be a Charles Starrett action film, "Two Fisted Rangers."

"The Hunchback of Notre Dame," one of the big pictures of last year, presenting Charles Laughton as the deformed cathedral bell ringer and Maureen O'Hara as the little gypsy girl for whom he finally gives his life, will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday. A melodrama, "Cafe Hostess," featuring Preston Foster and Ann Dvorak, will be on the same bill.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the bill will be "Three Sons," featuring William Gargan, Edward Ellis and Kent Taylor, and a George O'Brien action drama of the west, "Marshal of Mesa City."

It is reasonably clear that Mussolini entered the war last spring thinking that the collapse of France would bring peace quickly, and that he must have the legal status of a belligerent in order to share in the dismemberment of the French empire. But on two critical points Mussolini's calculation was wrong. Britain did not capitulate and did not negotiate a peace at the expense of France. And Hitler made his armistice with France at the expense of Italy.

All that Italy has had out of the war is the loss of her position in Spain and in central Europe, the threat of a deal by M. Laval which would make France rather than Italy the first lieutenant of Hitler, and the chance to fight a dangerous and exhausting war against the superior power of the British navy.

None of this tends to solidify the axis or to prepare the Italian people to endure a long siege and a difficult war in the Balkans and Africa, and an aerial bombardment of their cities. What has brought the Italians to this position? In the last analysis it is the sea power of Britain.

Re-elected county officials will take office on Jan. 1, 1941. The changes take place in the offices of the following: Sheriff, Elmer E. Smith (R), who defeated Carl F. Haberman (D-incumbent) in the clerk of courts race; James E. Reed (R), who defeated Theodore B. Ochs (D) for the office of prosecutor; Mrs. Grace Zachman (D), who ousted Mrs. Lucille Anderson (R) for recorder; Walter Johnson (R), who defeated Carl Tazzer (D-incumbent) for engineer; William Harriott (D), who won over W. H. Willis (R) for sheriff and William Risch (R) and Harrison Kraner (D), victorious candidates over J. O. Weiss (D-incumbent) and W. Paul Cass (R), in the commissioner's race.

Judge Oscar Gast, (R-incumbent), who defeated Paul Jones (D) for the probate court position, is due to begin his new term Feb. 9, 1941. Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young (D-incumbent) will take over Paul D. Smith (R), and Earl E. Thomas (R-incumbent), winner over Samuel Altmendinger (D) for county representative, will have the distinction of being the first to start their new terms.

Length of Terms
Judge Young will begin his new six-year term of office Jan. 1, the same day on which Mr. Thomas starts a two-year term in the state legislature. All other county officers are elected for four year terms.

Important Changes
The important county changes to the G.O.P. were the winning of a county commissioner's post and that of engineer. The first change the political complexion of the important board of commissioners to Republican while the office of engineer probably would mean more patronage than any other county post.

Taking office on Jan. 6 will be will be Marion Hicklin (R) who defeated Homer D. Cole (D-incumbent) for the treasurer's post. Hicklin, who has been a deputy in the office of Sheriff Fred F. Miller, will be out of a position until he takes over the change in the treasurer's office was set for September to permit the completion of the year's tax collection. Officials pointed out Treasurer Cole reported today he will ask the state tax commission for permission to close the tax books Aug. 10, 1941, instead of the usual time in September, so that he may complete his work before leaving office.

Offices in which there will be no change in administrative heads and consequently little likelihood of a shift in patronage include only those of the probate court, common pleas court, county representative and auditor's office. In several instances the administration has been changed yet remained within the same party lines, as in the cases of the recorder and prosecutor.

Gen. Boss' Job
In the recorder's office Mrs. Zachman, a clerk under Paul H. Naher, the incumbent Democrat who was not a candidate, will take over her boss' job. The present recorder's salary is $2,250 annually and his staff consists of a clerk and part-time stenographer.

James E. Reed will step into the post of prosecuting attorney, now held by Paul D. Michel, the Republican incumbent who was not a candidate. The salary is $2,550 annually and under the present administration Prosecutor Michel has had an assistant at $1,500 annually, a stenographer at $100 monthly and received $35 monthly rental. Mr. Reed, however, today reiterated one of his campaign promises that he will save the county $6,000 during his four-year term by dispensing with the services of an assistant.

Changes of office into the G.O.P. column include one commissioner, William Risch. The commissioner's annual salary is $2,250, which was raised by the state legislature during the tenure of office of the retiring Democratic officer, J. O. Weiss, who was defeated, and Leo J. Cusick, who was not a candidate. Both Mr. Weiss and Mr. Cusick received $1,348.92 annually, the old salary rate, since state law requires that an elected official's pay cannot be changed during his term of office. Urban F. Zachman, Republican, who was elected to the board of commissioners two years ago, however, was paid at the new rate of $2,250 annually. He took office after the raise was voted by the legislature and was the first to receive the increase.

Control Spending
Harrison Kraner, elected to the board as a Democrat, also will receive the annual pay of $2,250. Commissioners control spending policies and have limited jurisdiction over other county officers, so the change from Democratic to G.O.P. is an important one. It may also bring about a change in the commissioner's clerk since the present employee was hired when Democrats held control of the board.

The heaviest change in patronage is expected to come through winning of the engineer's post by a G.O.P. candidate. The annual salary is $3,204 and the successful candidate, Walter Johnson, will have a list of some 27 employees to hire. The present setup includes three regular office assistants, two other office positions created to handle WPA projects with their salaries paid from county funds set aside as the sponsor's share, a road superintendent, timekeeper and 20 men employed on road work.

Also taken away from the Democrats is the patronage through the clerk of courts and treasurer's office. Present salaries list $2,925 annually for the clerk and $3,300 annually for the treasurer. The staffs now consist of five in the clerk's office and five in the treasurer's department, all of whom will be under the G.O.P. banner.

The lone office won away from the Republicans, that of sheriff, carries a present salary of $2,475 annually. Sheriff Miller's current list of employees include three deputies, two of whom are assigned to general work and one who devotes full time to serving court papers, as well as a full-time stenographer. The sheriff also is provided with a residence in connection with his duties of supervising the operations of the county jail.

No Court Changes
Judge Hector S. Young, who was re-elected for a six-year term, receives $1,362.50 annually from the county and $3,000 annually from the state, a total of $4,362.50. His staff consists of a court bailiff and stenographer. Probate Judge Gast, also re-elected, receives $3,300 annually and has a staff of six.

Status of the county representative remained unchanged with the re-election of Earl E. Thomas (R). He receives $2,000 annually and also is paid expenses for mileage to and from the state house in Columbus, conditioned on the number of sessions. His office, that of one commissioner and the auditor, are the only ones which will be at stake in the 1942 election.

The county auditor's office will remain under Harry V. Mounts (R), who was elected in 1934 and will serve until the second Monday of March, 1943. His present salary is $3,300 annually and seven persons are members of his staff.

Based On Population
Salaries of county officials are based on population figures and all those elected in recent balloting face the possibility of a cut since the nose count for Marion county shows a drop from 45,420 to 44,928, according to preliminary census statistics. Salaries quoted in this article are those now being paid.

Although the 1940 preliminary census figures show a decline for the county, the cut will not be made until a certification of the officials' statistics are received here from the secretary of state. It was reported today from the auditor's office. The certification must precede the induction of an official into office since the state law does not permit a salary change during tenure of office.

Salary cuts here on the basis of the drop in census figures would be slight, it was pointed out. In one instance, that of the county engineer, it would mean a reduction of only $25 annually, from $9,204 to $9,179.

EXCEPTIONS TAKEN
Editor of The Star: In a letter to The Star, Mr. Tannhill says concerning the results of the recent presidential election: "The truth has crowded out the lies. It is as clear as the sun that the voters are not the kind of fools who are usually the victims of the campaign, he would not, and could not, have made the above assertion."

He also says, "The losers are now awaiting." I wish to inform the gentleman that I, like thousands of others who were on the losing side, are not waiting, for we are aware of the fact that we voted for Willie and that in voting for Willie we voted to preserve our democratic form of government and also we voted for a real man.

And unless there is a change in the aims, policies, etc., of the new deal before the next four years are ended, with thousands of others who voted for Willie, can say, my conscience is clear as I did not vote to bring this on the people.

Mr. Editor, I do not wish to enter in any controversy, as like Mr. Tannhill, am not well enough informed to do so if I wanted to; but when anyone makes such assertions about the way the vote was cast, I am, I cannot take sitting down and with my arms folded.

The campaign is over and when anyone makes such slurring remarks to the losers, it simply shows the kind of a loser he himself would be.

Bucyrus, Shelby Win NCO Title Shares

Harding Favored To Grab Chunk of Pennant at Mt. Vernon Today; Galion, Ashland Lose.

RETURNS from other North Central Ohio conference games, showing Shelby trounced Galion, 27-6, and Bucyrus thumped Ashland, 20-14, put Marion Harding Gridders on the spot for their important test this afternoon at Mt. Vernon.

The Shelby-Bucyrus victories were anticipated, but by posting them in the record books the Whippets and Redmen assured themselves a share in the 1940 NCO title. Marion Harding must win this afternoon to clamber into a three-way split for the crown.

At Bucyrus the Redmen came up with their first victory over Ashland since 1928. The win gave the Crawford couglans their first title-meeting combination since 1928. It was a far cry from last season when Bucyrus failed to win a league split for the crown.

How They Scored

Coach Nick Wasyluk's crew scored twice in the first quarter and again in the third, while Ashland's touchdowns came in the third and fourth periods. Kanode, Mitchellson and Leubold carried the ball for the Bucyrus touchdowns, the first pair scoring on short line smashes and the latter on a 37-yard run.

Jim Puglisi raced 40 yards for Ashland's first touchdown and the second was made in the last minute on a Puglisi-to-Risser pass.

The Orangemen of Galion held Shelby to a 7-8 halftime count and then collapsed in the second and third periods. It was the first time since 1937, when they shared the NCO runner with Galion, that the Whippets have finished at the top of the league standings.

Galion drew first blood when DeWalt smashed through the line to wind up an 80-yard march. Minutes later in the same period Laubie broke loose for a 65-yard jaunt for the Shelby touchdown. Daugherty place-kicked the added point and the Whippets held a half-time edge.

In the third period Laubie covered the last three yards of a 60-yard march and the Whippets chalked up a pair of touchdowns in the closing stanza. Bonecutter of Shelby recovered a fumble on his own 12, led an 85-yard march and then chased the last three for the final touchdown.

Harding Leaves Early
Coach Bill Williams and his Marion Harding stalwarts left at 11:45 this morning for Mt. Vernon, where their chance to get a split of the NCO honors will be at stake. On the basis of past records and comparative scores Marion has been favored to win but Williams asserted, "we'll have a ball game on our hands."
